Thousands of lives have been saved thanks to the New York State Cancer Services Program

- Cases of breast, cervical, and prostate cancer are happening at an alarming rate. Finding cancer at an early state increases the opportunity for effective treatment and patient survival.
- In the past year, over 30,000 New Yorkers received a screening thanks to the New York State Cancer Services Program.
- Assemblyman Dave McDonough secured $25.3 million in this year's budget to fund cancer treatment programs.
- $33.2 million for tobacco prevention and cancer research.
- $87.1 million for Roswell Park cancer research.
- $5 million for mobile mammography vans.
- $1.4 million for breast cancer and prostate cancer research.
