“After several years of cuts to education funding, common sense dictates that scarce state funds should go to our kids, not convicted felons.”

Join Assemblyman Brian Curran, Put Our Children Before Convicted Felons

Yes, I believe that law-abiding families struggling with their own student debt should not be forced to pay for the education of convicted felons. I stand with you and the families of New York State in your fight to ensure that our taxpayer dollars go to our kids and are not used to benefit those who have broken our laws.

For the past three years, Assemblyman Brian Curran has fought hard to increase educational funding for textbooks, teachers, classrooms, and higher education tuition assistance. In a year where many Nassau County school districts are seeing a decrease in state aid under the governor's proposed budget, Assemblyman Curran finds it alarming that the same budget would set aside funds for convicted felons to receive free college educations. Assemblyman Curran understands the long-term value of offering educational opportunities for incarcerated individuals, but this is an issue of priorities. Assemblyman Curran's priority is to get the most educational funding, for all levels of education, for the kids of this Assembly District.
