Meeting Sanitation Commissioner Garcia

Last year I wrote to Commissioner Kathryn Garcia about unsolicited ads popping up across Fresh Meadows and the surrounding neighborhood. While in Albany, the Commissioner and I met to discuss this issue and many others affecting our community. If you see unsolicited ads on public property, please report the ad to 311 and call my office so we can follow up with the complaint number.

Fighting for CUNY Funding

I had the privilege of meeting Queens College faculty and administrators in my Albany office. Members of CUNY's Professional Staff Congress participated in Higher Education Lobby Day to raise awareness on the investments needed to support CUNY faculty and students. As the representative for Queens' largest group of CUNY students, faculty, administrators and staff, I am actively advocating to close the $435 million budget gap that would be a detriment to our community.

Welcoming YWCA's New Executive Director Kim

Last month, I attended the inauguration of Katherine H. Kim as YWCA of Queens' Executive Director. Kim holds over 15 years of dedicated service to the community and has worked on a variety of issues concerning children and families, hunger relief, and economic mobility. YWCA of Queens is an influential, local non-profit dedicated to eliminating racism, empowering women, and promoting peace, justice, freedom, and dignity for all.

Teaming up with the New York Cosmos in Flushing

In order to combat budget cuts continuing to strain programming in NYC schools in areas such as the arts, foreign language, and physical education, I paired up with the NY Cosmos to bring three free soccer clinics to P.S. 120 so that students can further their learning and development outside the classroom. The clinics were very successful and served students of all grade levels. It is important to invest in these alternatives that make these vital resources available to our local communities.

Celebrating the Lunar New Year!

To ring in the Year of the Monkey, I enjoyed many community events such as senior center celebrations, student gatherings and performances, and the always successful Flushing Chinese Business Association Lunar New Year Parade. This year marked a special celebration in recognition of the first year in which NYC schools were closed in honor of Lunar New Year. I want to thank community members for their support in securing the school holiday and congratulate everyone on this important victory.
