

Assemblyman Ron Kim

got $1 billion more for our schools

“Increased education aid equals stronger schools and brighter futures. We’re making sure our children can become the leaders of tomorrow.”

Assemblyman Kim is fighting for a quality education for students across New York City

State budget invests $25.7 billion in education to help children reach their full potential:

✔ $817 million for prekindergarten programs

✔ $700 million Foundation Aid increase so every child receives a quality education

✔ $150 million to convert schools into community schools that offer comprehensive services for at-risk students and families

The Assembly also said NO to waivers that could have weakened education rights for students with disabilities.
