

A photograph of a flooded residential street. In the background, there are several houses with light-colored siding and windows. The foreground is dominated by a large body of water, likely floodwater, with numerous ripples and raindrops visible on its surface. The overall scene is somewhat desaturated, giving it a somber and resilient feel.

The Mohawk Valley:
STRONGER THAN ANY STORM

Our communities are stronger than any storm.

Flooding has damaged and destroyed homes, small businesses and farms, but our communities are resilient due to great neighbors who lend helping hands.

Getting our communities back on their feet in the midst of this very trying time is priority number one.

Gov. Cuomo, my legislative colleagues and I pledged over $7 million in flood recovery aid to individuals in Herkimer and Oneida counties.

I know in the end our region will come back stronger than before.
