Dear Friend:

As fall approaches and temperatures start to dip, it is a good time to remember the less fortunate among us. I am pleased to let you know that for the fourth time, I am sponsoring 'Warm for Winter,' which is a way you can provide local families with new or gently used clothing donations appropriate for the colder months.

Since I started 'Warm for Winter,' I have been amazed at the incredible response from community members. The outpouring of support from residents in Rome, Utica, and surrounding communities has been outstanding. We have received literally thousands of winter clothing items over the last several years, including coats, hats, gloves, scarves, and boots for families in need. These donations make a big difference in the lives of many people here in the Mohawk Valley.

Donation sites this year will again be the Jervis Public Library at 613 N. Washington Street in Rome, and Chanatry's Hometown Markets at 485 French Road, Utica. You can drop off your new or gently used items at either location during their regular business hours Monday, September 19th through Friday, October 21st. Please do not drop items off until September 19th at these locations.

Agencies benefitting from your donations again include the Rome Rescue Mission, the Rescue Mission of Utica, and the Mohawk Valley Resource Center for Refugees.

If you have any questions, please call my district office in Utica at (315) 732-1055.

Sincerely,

Anthony Brindisi
