Caribbean-American Heritage Month

June is Caribbean-American Heritage Month. Our Caribbean communities provide rich heritage and cultural diversity. Throughout this month, our nation celebrates Caribbean-Americans for their overwhelming contributions to American society.

Many Caribbeans leave their native countries and come to America in search of a better life. While in America, they study to become our teachers, doctors, engineers, lawyers and more; and play a pivotal role in our society.

During the past year, as we experienced the height of the coronavirus pandemic, our nation watched as our essential workers, many of whom are Caribbean-Americans, stood steadfast and worked tirelessly and faithfully to support and protect our communities in spite of unprecedented challenges.

Our society owes a debt of gratitude to Caribbean-Americans across the United States.

Happy Caribbean-American Heritage Month!
