Greetings --

It's great to be back in the district after the conclusion of the legislative session last Friday. Over the last few days, some wonderful things have been happening in Brooklyn. Please read below for some highlights of this past week.

It's My Park Mondays

This past Monday I spent some time with Prospect Park Alliance President Sue Donoghue and other Brooklynites cleaning up Prospect Park for It's My Park Mondays. You can join the Alliance's clean up every Monday by volunteering here.

PS 130 Playground Reopening

I also spent a wonderful morning with the students of PS 130 for the reopening of their new playground, along with Councilmember Brad Lander, Carter Strickland of The Trust for Public Land, and the PS 130 PTA. In 2019 the first graders of PS 130 helped lead the redesign on their playground, transforming it from a standard concrete slab into a beautiful addition to the neighborhood. I'm proud to have supported the completion of this amazing project through funding from the New York State Assembly.

Congratulations to All of Our Graduates

This morning I attended the graduation for the 5th graders at PS 139. Congratulations to all of the 5th grade graduates throughout the 44th district. Have a great summer and good luck in middle school in September.

Juneteenth

Saturday is Juneteenth, during which we celebrate the liberation of enslaved people in the United States. Originally celebrated in Texas, this day has now been embraced and observed across the country. I am proud to have worked with my colleagues in the New York State Assembly last year to make Juneteenth an official holiday in New York. If you would like to attend a local event to celebrate and honor this holiday, 651 Arts will be holding its inaugural annual Juneteenth celebration throughout this weekend. Further information can be found here.
