Providing For Our Schools

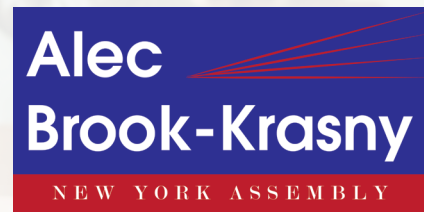

“Since day one, education has been my number one priority as your assemblyman. As a father, I know the impact that a quality education has on our children. This is why I’ve fought every day to make sure our schools have the tools and resources they need to take care of their students.”

Here is a small part of what I’ve been working on to support our schools:

- Create a youth apprenticeship program to help students transition into the workforce¹
- Continue the Pathways in Technology Early College High School Program to give alternative career paths to students going directly into the workforce²
- Provide financial literacy education in our public and private schools³
- Establish the "Purple Star School Program" to assist military-connected students and recognize the value of military service and civic responsibility⁴
- Allow home-schooled students to participate in athletic programs in their resident school district⁵
