A MESSAGE FROM

Assembly Member Rebecca A. Seawright

Dear Neighbor,

Today is National Mammography Day. New York State is a leader in supporting legislation to improve early detection and access to breast cancer care. I encourage all New Yorkers- women and men of all ages- to get routine mammograms. I am proud to have passed legislation in both houses to provide 3D mammograms at no out-of-pocket cost to the consumer. Early detection is the key to defeating breast cancer. Please join me using #getscreened on social media to raise awareness of this day and to remind loved ones to get screened.

Today, at a news conference in my district community office, I warned consumers to scare with care and urged them not to purchase zero power colored contact lenses that are popularly used for Halloween costumes. This past weekend, I was so impressed by the creativity of the costumes that were at the Halloween Howl on Sunday, October 15. October is National Domestic Violence Awareness Month and purple is the symbolic color to raise awareness about domestic violence. On NYC Go Purple Day, Administration, elected officials and volunteers in all five boroughs will conduct outreach and provide information about domestic violence to New Yorkers in public spaces.

I hope you will join us at an upcoming event in the neighborhood. I am so pleased to have supported Search and Care with a grant of $5,000 to bring new therapeutic programming and events to senior citizens in our neighborhood. Check out their new "Vocalease" and "Tea & Creativity." We look forward to hosting a Rat Academy at Brearley School on November 2, and a Crime Prevention Presentation with the 19th Precinct on November 20, a Community Board 8 Asthma forum featuring my asthma study bill which has passed both houses on November 28 and an Excelsior Scholarship and College Affordability forum at Julia Richman Education Complex on November 30.

Stay in touch with my office about any issues that are important to you. As always, we are just a visit, call or email away.

Sincerely,

REBECCA A. SEAWRIGHT

Seawright's Warning to Consumers to Scare with Care

at Press Conference on the Dangers of Halloween Contact Lenses

On Friday, October 20, 2017 Assembly Member Rebecca A. Seawright, Chair of the Subcommittee on Consumer Fraud Protection called on her constituents and parents across New York State to "scare with care and put safety first." Zero power colored contact lenses are used all year-round but are most popular during the Halloween season. Dr. Dean Evan Hart, an optometrist, biologist and Director of Low Vision at Harlem Hospital Medical Center joined Assembly Member Seawright in her district community office for a press conference to warn consumers of the dangers of the popular zero power colored contact lenses sold in stores and online that can cause permanent eye damage and even blindness.

There are serious risks that come with obtaining and using lenses that are not prescribed by a licensed eye doctor. In fact, it is illegal to sell colored contact lenses without a prescription in the United States. All contact lenses are medical devices that require a prescription and proper fitting by an eye-care professional. Retailers that sell contacts without a prescription are breaking the law and may be fined $11,000 per violation. Many of the lenses found online or in beauty salons, novelty shops or in Halloween stores are not FDA-approved and are being sold illegally.

“Parents please warn your children, teens and young adults of the consequences, there is no such thing as a one size fits all lens and an ill-fitting lens can cause permanent, lifelong damage. Again, the message that I want everyone to hear today is scare with care. Safety first!” said Assembly Member Rebecca A. Seawright.

If you know of a retail store or website which is selling lenses, please contact our office and report them the Food and Drug Administration by calling 1-888-INFO-FDA.

NYC GO PURPLE DAY: DE BLASIO ADMINISTRATION LAUNCHES NEW AD CAMPAIGN, ILLUMINATES CITY IN PURPLE TO RAISE AWARENESS ABOUT DOMESTIC VIOLENCE

#NYCGoPurple

In honor of NYC Go Purple Day, the de Blasio Administration today launched a new ad campaign to raise awareness about domestic violence. These ads will run on three Clear Channel jumbotrons in Times Square through Friday. Additionally, buildings and landmarks across the City will light up in purple, including City Hall, One Police Plaza, the Yankee Stadium jumbotron, all five Borough Halls and the Parachute Jump at Coney Island.

October is National Domestic Violence Awareness Month and purple is the symbolic color to raise awareness about domestic violence. On NYC Go Purple Day, Administration, elected officials and volunteers in all five boroughs will conduct outreach and provide information about domestic violence to New Yorkers in public spaces. All New Yorkers, including City employees, are encouraged to wear purple and post photos on social media with the hashtag #NYCGoPurple and #DVAM2017.

During Domestic Violence Awareness Month and throughout the year, the City encourages all New Yorkers to:

- Recognize and speak out against intimate partner violence, gender injustice and all forms of abuse.
- Offer unconditional support to someone who has experienced violence.
- Speak up against statements that promote violence.
- Get help from an expert, advocate, or other professional.
- Help share resources with those who need help: NYC DV Hotline 1-800-621-4673; 911 in emergencies; for information and connection to services, call 212-788-3156 and ask for OCDV's Family Justice Centers.

"In 2016, the number of orders of protection as a result of domestic violence has reached a 5-year high. In addition, it was found that women were victims in more than 60% of reported assaults. As a Member of the Legislative Women's Caucus I will continue to work with my colleagues to ensure that we strengthen and improve response and assistance available to victims, survivors and children who are experiencing domestic violence and to bring awareness so that victims know they are not alone," said Assembly Member Rebecca Seawright.

The de Blasio Administration has made an unprecedented effort to reduce domestic violence in New York City. In May, the City released its Domestic Violence Task Force report, a $7 million plan to better apprehend abusers and ensure support for survivors. In 2016, the City opened the Staten Island Family Justice Center, the City's fifth, and completed the de Blasio administration's vision of having a Center in every borough. For more information on events happening throughout the month and services for survivors, call 212-788-3156 or visit the website at www.nyc.gov/domesticviolence.

Seawright Testifies as a Member of the Education Committee at a Hearing

The New York State Assembly held a public hearing to examine the current state of New York's school infrastructure and facilities and study new ways to support, improve and modernize schools and boards of cooperative educational services (BOCES).

"What are the principle health and safety conditions... I know my own daughter went to NEST High School and there was an issue there with the water fountain," asks Assembly Member Rebecca Seawright of Lorraine Grillo, President of the NYC Department of Education School Construction Authority, at a public hearing to examine the current state of New York's school infrastructure and facilities and study new ways to support, improve and modernize New York State's schools and Boards of Cooperative Educational Services (BOCES).

The New York State Department of Education (SED) commissioner MaryEllen Elia, and also from SED, Jhone Ebert, senior deputy commissioner for P-20 and Christina Coughlin, assistant commissioner. Other witnesses included representatives from the New York City Department of Education (DOE), Lorraine Grillo, president of the School Construction Authority, Aloysee Jarmoszuk, chief of staff, Division of Operations and John Shea, CEO, Division of School Facilities. Testimony will also be heard from the New York State School Facilities Association, New York State United Teachers, BOCES, the New York State Association of School Business Officials and the Alliance for Quality Education.

Constitutional Convention 2017

Be Informed at the Ballot Box!

PROCEDURE TO AMEND THE CONSTITUTION

There are two ways to amend our New York State Constitution. This requires two consecutively elected legislatures to approve a ballot measure, followed by a statewide referendum on the proposed change. The other is through a constitutional convention. Every twenty years, voters are asked on their ballot “Shall there be a convention to revise the constitution and amend the same?” (NY Const art XIX, s.2).

TIMELINE

On November 7, 2017 in the General Election voters will decide if New York State will hold a constitutional convention. If a convention is voted Yea by the majority in the election on November 7, 2017, there will be an election of delegates to a Constitutional Convention. The convention would commence on April 2, 2019. In the following General Election, proposals that the convention delegates determine to present to the electors are voted on. After the adjournment of the convention, on January 1 of the following year is the date that the proposals go into effect.

PREPARATIONS FOR A CONVENTION

Commissions have been employed in various ways to either propose constitutional amendments or prepare materials for constitutional convention Delegates. In the nineteenth century, several commissions were established to recommend revisions to the state constitution, rather than to prepare materials for convention delegates.

In the twentieth century, the government of New York State established five commissions in preparation for a potential constitutional convention. The two earliest of those (1914 and 1937) were created after voters had chosen to call a convention. The 1956, 1965, and 1993 commissions were authorized before the popular vote. The 1914 and 1965 commissions were created by legislation. The 1937, 1956, and 1993 commissions were created by executive order.

Most of the recent commissions sought to provide information to convention delegates. In contrast, the executive order by Governor Mario Cuomo that established the 1993 commission expressly declared that the purpose of that Commission was to inform the public, governor, and legislature about potential convention issues, not to inform the delegates.

PREPARATIONS FOR A CONVENTION IN 2019

No legislation or Executive Order has directed the creation of a commission in anticipation of the 2017 vote on the ballot proposal for a convention, the Delegate selection process, or the operation of the convention. If the voters support the convention, certain aspects are required by the New York State Constitution while others are discretionary and subject to negotiations between the convention Delegates, the legislature, and/or the Executive.

The convention will operate separately from the legislature. Similar to the legislature, the convention will “determine the rules of its own proceedings, choose its own officers, and be the judge of the election, returns and qualifications of its members” (NY Const art XI, s 2.). The only limitations contained in the Constitution are that a majority of the Delegates will constitute a quorum to conduct business and “no amendment to the constitution shall be submitted for approval to the electors... unless by the assent of a majority of all delegates elected to the convention, the ayes and noes being entered on the journal to be kept” (NY Const art XIX, s 2). The convention is empowered to appoint any officers and staff as it deems necessary, fix their compensation, and expend funds for expenses.

PROS AND CONS OF A CON CON

See this article from the New York Times- “A Constitutional Convention for New York? This May Be the Year”

BEWARE THE MISINFORMATION ON SOCIAL MEDIA

Posts have gone viral over social media on the upcoming vote in November saying that the ballot is rigged because the proposals are placed on the back of the ballot. The suspicion is that the back of the ballot will be left blank by voters who are unaware of the proposals and that the blank votes will be considered as votes in favor of holding a constitutional convention. This is false information. A blank ballot is a blank vote.

NYPD Halloween Safety Tips

Safety Tips for Children.

What Can I Do?

The National Highway Traffic Safety Administration (NHTSA) reports that Halloween is consistently one of the top three days of the year for pedestrian injuries and fatalities. In addition, 48% of all motor vehicle crash fatalities on Halloween night in 2012 (latest available data) involved a drunk driver. And according to the Center for Disease Control, children ages 5 to 14 are four times more likely to be killed by a motor vehicle accident on Halloween than on any other day of the year.

Sound scary?

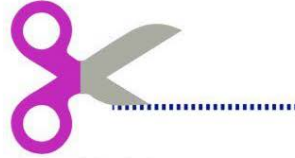

It doesn't have to be. Parents should always emphasize safety precautions, and accompany children on their rounds after dark. Here are some guidelines to follow: motor vehicle accident on Halloween than on any other day of the year.

Keep costumes light and bright, so children are clearly visible to motorists and other pedestrians. Trim costumes, bags and even hats with reflective tape.

Costumes should be flame-resistant and fit properly. Be sure the child's vision is unobstructed by face masks, paint, or head gear like hats.

Costumes that are too long may cause kids to trip and fall. Trim or hem their costumes, as necessary. Children should wear sturdy, comfortable, slip-resistant shoes to avoid falls.

It is important that children walk on sidewalks and never cut across yards or driveways. They should also obey all traffic signals and remain in designated crosswalks when crossing the street.

It's also a good idea to carry a cell phone while trick-or-treating in case of an emergency.

For more information on child safety, or for other crime prevention and personal safety tips, please visit our website at: www.nypdcommunityaffairs.org.

CONSTRUCTION UPDATES

A Message from The Chapin School

Please be advised that over the weekend of Saturday, October 21st and Sunday, October 22nd the balance of the tower crane will be delivered and assembled onsite. This work will require a complete street closure from 6:00 AM Saturday through 9:00 PM Sunday on East 84th Street between York and East End Avenues.

Street Closure and Work Hours: October 21st and October 22nd

- Street closure signs will be posted at the corners of East 84th Street at York and East End Avenues one week in advance of the closing. Additional NYPD No Parking signs will appear 48 hours prior to the street closure.
- Please note: in advance of this work commencing, all vehicles must be temporarily relocated from the street prior to 6AM Saturday, October 21st, or your vehicle will be towed. Towing will begin at 6:00 AM. If your vehicle is towed, tow locations will be available at the 19th Precinct by calling 212-452-0600 (prompt for switchboard operator is 0).
- Residential vehicle ingress or egress will not be permitted at any time until work is completed on Sunday evening. Kindly make arrangements not to schedule any vehicular/truck deliveries during this weekend. Emergency personnel will be able to access the block over the weekend.
- Preparatory work (fence and barricade removal) will begin on Friday October 20, but will not require any lane closings. Two hydraulic assist cranes will remain in place overnight Saturday/Sunday. Security guards will be present 24/7 from Friday morning through Sunday night to patrol the worksite.
- Work hours on Saturday and Sunday will be between 7:00 AM and 9:00 PM. Towing and other site mobilizations will begin at 6:00 AM.

Please note that information pertaining to crane logistics and operations can be found on Chapin's website - www.chapin.edu/buildingproject - and will be continually updated.

Please also note the crane delivery and installation dates could change due to inclement weather. In the event of a weather delay, we will send another electronic notification on the morning of October 21st noticing our neighbors that the work is postponed. (Our backup dates are Saturday, October 28th and Sunday, October 29th.)

Thank you again for your ongoing patience as our construction project enters this next phase.
