Protecting You From Unaffordable Energy Mandates

Albany's push to fully electrify heating and transportation may sound good—but without balance, it could cost you.

- The average customer could see bills rise by about $600 over the next three years¹.
- No new natural gas hookups allowed in most new buildings even if it's more affordable².
- Farmland is increasingly being bought for large solar projects, driving up land costs for farmers and diminishing our state's agricultural production³.

That's not sustainable for seniors, families, or small businesses.

What I am doing to help:

- ✦ Fighting for smart, affordable energy policies that work for everyone. It's time to restore energy choice in New York.
- ✦ A6260 – This would require a full affordability study on renewable energy with regular updates.
- ✦ A6152-A – If passed, this would demand monthly cost/benefit reports to be fully transparent about the impact on your bills.
- ✦ A5395 – Would make sure environmental rules balance costs and benefits for you.
