

Assemblymember Harry Bronson's donation drive for at-risk Youth

“Record numbers of young people are experiencing housing instability and homelessness each year, including many LGBTQ+ youth. Unstable housing disconnects youth from social and emotional supports, food access, education, health care and more. I am proud to support The Center for Youth which is helping young people achieve their full potential by creating opportunities, removing barriers, and providing them with safe spaces this season. Let’s come together to provide health and wellness products, non-perishable foods, and other goods so they will have a warm and healthy holiday.”

About The Center for Youth:

The Center for Youth has been working to address homelessness and reduce victimization of Rochester youth for over 45 years. They currently operate three transitional living and permanent housing programs: Arnett House, Chrysalis House, and New Beginnings House to help young men and women, 16-21, become self-sufficient and transition into stable housing, including LGBTQ+ youth and trafficked youth.
